Making a Difference: OFW's in Hungary working in Manufacturing Industry

The road to our dreams may not go exactly as we had hoped, but with determination, hard work, and prayers, the "someday" will finally become a reality, just as Mary Jane Yumul, 38, and Rivera Amor Beatrice, 34, inspiring stories.

These Filipinos came to Hungary almost a year ago and both of them is working in Manufacturing Industry. Both are dealing with different difficulties, but none of these difficulties prevent them from achieving their goals and dreams.

Mary Jane Yumul, from Pampanga, made the decision to leave the Philippines at the young age of 20 and start to work overseas. Mary Jane admits that her journey was difficult; she made the decision to work overseas because, in her experience, she encounters discrimination and because qualifications are so high in the Philippines. That's why according to her, when she saw the PNI International advertisement for a job opening she immediately applied "I submitted my cv to PNI International because I saw that it is one of the agencies that is legit. And I'm thankful because they immediately noticed my CV and called me right away. They help me throughout the application process and they also taking care of my papers going to Hungary."

With ever-growing manufacturing industry in Hungary, PNI International anticipates seeing more inspiring stories like Mary Jane. She shares this advice to other OFWs who desire to enjoy the benefits of working in Hungary: "Just be positive wherever you go and when you go abroad you should think about why you went abroad, think about your goals and achievements. When you apply, your decision must be final because you will leave your family for the future and to move forward in life, but with these all your dreams will come true as long as you persevere abroad."

Rivera Amor Beatrice

Many Filipinos dream to work abroad for many of reasons. A better life, provide a better education for their kids, financial security, just like what Rivera Amor Beatrice "The reasons why I choose to work abroad is because I want to support my child, to achieve my goals and dreams in life."

Mary Jane Yumul

"Working here in Hungary is a non-stop opportunity. As of now my biggest achievement is that I can provide for my family. I am so grateful that my manifestation became into reality because of PNI. Before I am not seeing myself into stepping here in Hungary, because we all know that applying here is so hard. But now I am now working here because of PNI International."

She also mentions that "Just stepping foot here in Hungary, is one of the achievements, not all applicants are able to pass and find a legit agency. I am thankful because I got a job in one of the big companies here in Hungary. I am grateful because I have a good job and we have many benefits such as living for free, an allowance is given every month and free shuttle. Which is that it is rare that anyone makes an offer in the Philippines"

Just like we've heard from Mary Jane and Rivera Amor, everyone has a unique story that helped shape who they are as individuals today. We hope that other people will learn something from this and aspire to do a similar thing.
